I, the participant, agree to the use of photographs taken of me and material gathered in interview with me, in a documentary photographic project carried out by Robert Dunlop and Peter Lumby, of Ablaze Media Limited.

I understand that the photographs and interview may be used for the purposes of publication in printed book form and on Ablaze Media's websites, and for publicity in online or printed form, in territories worldwide. I also agree that the photographer shall have full editorial control over the presentation of the material. I understand that any biographical or personal details contained within the interview may be used for the project. However, my full name and email address will not be disclosed to any person outside of Ablaze Media Limited. I agree that any photographs taken of me and any information I provide may be used by the photographer without financial reward to me, and that I have no moral or financial rights or ownership in relation to this material.
